

FAFONI

Everything in life is a project we set goals, bring people together, manage resources, overcome challenges, and work towards an outcome. Yet the skills required to successfully manage projects are often fragmented across education, professional training, work experience, and career development.

Fafoni was created to bridge that gap. Fafoni is a project management ecosystem that helps individuals and organisations build the knowledge, skills, experience, and talent needed to turn ideas into successful outcomes. From learning and professional certification to practical project experience, career development, recruitment, consulting, and corporate training, Fafoni connects the entire project management journey in one ecosystem.

Our vision is simple: to make project management a capability that enables people and organisations to turn ambition into impact.
